JOHNSON WILL BE CAREFUL IN CAMP

Will Not Kill Himself Training for His Fight With Jim Jeffries.

Special to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Jack Johnson said today that he now wishes he had insisted upon reserving the right to arrange one or two fights before taking on James Jeffries. The black champion does not want to commence training for the big fight, fearing that he will go stale. Johnson also says that he hopes Jeffries will continue his present system of work, as he will be that much easier when the time comes for the battle. Johnson said: "I am taking plenty of outdoor exercise and I spend much of my time riding in my automobile. I get out in the country and breathe the fresh air which does me more good than all the work I could do in the training camp at the present time. When I start work I will be right, and when I step into the ring the fans can just bet their money that I will feel at my very best, and at that time I will call upon Jeffries to come on and his worst. I do not fear him in the least, and if he makes one of those rushes at me, I am liable to keep him going right on through the ropes. I tell you, men, it is a cruel time for the black race and I am going to win. I feel that I am as strong as Samson, and when I hit Jeffries, he will be more than a cramp in his neck, and it will take a big bottle of smelling salts to bring him to." Johnson said his daily programme when he arrives at Ocean Beach will be as follows: 5 a. m.—Don the spiked shoes and take a ten-mile hike over the roads, accompanied by two trainers. 10 a. m.—Rub down and breakfast. 10 a. m.—Punching the bag in the gymnasium. 3 p. m.—Boxing for at least ten rounds, all rough, with no parlor or burlesque style of boxing. 10 p. m.—Go to bed. "That will be my daily task up until the time of the fight," he said. "In between these hours I will take spins in my automobile."
